The first system of handwritten musical notation consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef and the lower staff is in bass clef. The music is written in a style characteristic of early 20th-century Greek manuscript notation, featuring various note values, rests, and dynamic markings. The system concludes with a double bar line.

The second system of handwritten musical notation consists of two staves. It continues the piece from the first system, showing similar melodic and harmonic development. The notation includes slurs and accents, and ends with a double bar line.

The third system of handwritten musical notation consists of two staves. It is the final system of music on the page, leading to a concluding cadence. The notation is consistent with the previous systems.

Four empty musical staves are located at the bottom of the page, below the main body of music.
